

Montrell

I became involved in water conservation because the type of science I am interested in deals with amphibians, which are a major indicator of water quality, so that got me interested in water conservation and wetlands. For the past few years I have been involved in restoring my school's wetland, and I have been trying to spread the word about conservation throughout my school. Please join me in helping to conserve one of most precious natural resources—water!